

PLAZA CONSTRUCTION HIRES INDUSTRY VETERAN JOE CERRI AS VICE PRESIDENT, DIRECTOR OF FIELD OPERATIONS

MIAMI – November 9, 2020 – Plaza Construction, one of the nation’s foremost full-service construction management and general contracting firms, today announced that Joe Cerri has re-joined Plaza Construction as Vice President and Director of Field Operations in its Southeast Regional office located in Miami. Cerri, a construction industry veteran with more than 40 years experience, previously spent about 10 years at Plaza in various roles.

In this position, Cerri will lead and direct the regions’ field operations, including project planning, safety, quality control and schedule analysis, among other responsibilities. During his previous tenure at Plaza, Cerri built a number of notable multifamily residential and commercial developments, including the award-winning One Thousand Museum tower and the W South Beach.

“Joe is a well-recognized and respected construction professional with a vast repertoire of successful and notable projects,” said Brad Meltzer, president of Plaza Construction. “We are thrilled to welcome him back and excited about the talent he brings to our team.”

Cerri’s multi-sector background helped contribute to Plaza’s significant growth in the South Florida market and beyond. He holds an Associates Degree in Civil Engineering from Lakeland Community College.
